Georgetown's base ball team played in rather hard luck yesterday, doing much better work than Fordham, according to the box score, yet losing by a count of 4 to 8. The Blue and Gray got a total of twelve hits against six for the New Yorkers. Murray pitched fine ball for the local school, wildness being his only drawback. Five men were walked by him and two were hit by pitched balls. Nine Georgetown fielded brilliantly and used his bat effectively getting three safe drives out of five attempts.
